WASHINGTON CITY: IUISDAY ..... February 11, 1973.

Judge Poland's committee room was packed this morning, in expectation of Oakes Ames and his memorandum book, but neither were at hand at the hour of meeting, and the rumor tan around the room, that O ran around the room that O

. .... was likely to after all. Eleven o'clock came and no Ames, and then Sergeant-at-Arms Ordway was sent to look him up. Presently he returned with the missing witness. "You are rather late, Mr. Ames," said Judge Poland, with as near an air of impatience as is apt to come over that imperturbable chairman. "Yes, I am rather late."

said Mr. Ames, without explaining why he was late. Ames looked the worst for wear since he last appeared in the committee room, being baggard and pale, and his hands trembled visihir as he handled documents before him. Judge Poland proceeded: "Mr. Ames, have you your original memorandum book?" Mr. Ames answered with a somewhat discomposed air unusual with him that he had it, but acting under the advice of his counsel had concluded that he ought not to produce it until Mr. Colfax had put in his threatened evidence impeaching his (Ames') testimony. Judge Poland urbanely indicated to Mr. Ames that the committee thought differently and would require him to produce the book. Mr. Ames then stated, very much to the disgust of the impatient audience, and to the apparent dissatisfaction of the committee, that he had "left the book with a friend," and that this friend was at the other end of the city. Being further questioned, he said this friend was at the Arlington, and that his name was Horace F. Clark. Judge Poland, with a slight flavor of acerbity in his tone, directed the sergeant-atarms to be summoned, in order to go for the missing man, or the missing book. Ames then slowly wrote a note to Clark, which was given Mr. Ordway (to Poland) .- "Do you want Mr.

Clark, or the book?" Judge Poland (explosively) .- "I want THE BOOK!" [Great laughter.]

Then Ordway departed, and the committee. the witnesses and the accused sat looking at each other rather foolishly, having nothing to do, and feeling not in the best of tempers all around. For instance, Mr. Colfax and Mr. Ames sat just opposite each other, and each apparently wished the other further. Then Mr. Ames, in a miscellaneous sort of way. as if to kill time, put his hand carelessly into one of his numerous pockets, and pulled out a memorandum book, then he made a dive into another pocket and out came another memorandum book. All eyes were turned hopefully at O. A., as if something might turn up, and Judge Poland noticing the fact, inquired: "Have you the originals there of any of the books?" Ames, however, threw cold water upon public expectation by declaring that he had a book or two with him, but not the book, which was for the year 1868. These books were examinedor certain pages marked by turned down leaves-but nothing in particular developed. Finally Ordway's tall form was seen struggling through the crowd towards Judge Poland, with whom he whispered for a moment, and then it was stated, amidst an explosion of laughter, that Mr. Clark had been found (at 12 m.), but that he declined to come with the memorandum book until he had got his breakfast. Apparently Mr. Clark and his client hoped to tire the committee out, but they reckoned on false premises. Judge Poland announced his purpose to "stick" until THE BOOK was produced. Well, after another recess, Mr. Clark, having leisurely breakfasted, made his appearance and entered upon a speech in behalf of his client (Ames) to show that "in behalf of public decency" it was not proper that the investigation should rake out all the entries of this memorandum book Then, the committee being inexorable, the book an ordinary-sized diary for 1868, was produced The entries in it seemed to be scrawling memoranda written with pencil, and to run past the memoranda for 1869 as well as 1868. The closest attention was given as the credit mobilier entries affecting members of Congress were read. expectation; the only new matter o any special import being an entry, Jannary, 1869, of $1,500 paid Scuyler Colfax in certificate bonds, with interest on the same, in eash to the amount of $75. This entry Mr. Ames seemed unwilling to have read until Mr. Colfax should have put in his evidence. He was questioned by Judge Poland if he had found any receipts from Mr. Colfax, and answered in a low tone that he had not, as yet. This admission served to give the friends of Mr. Colfax considerable satisfaction, and altogether the developments of the famous memorandum book, as far as brought out, do not seem to be as momentous as was predicted.

The Philadelphia Ledger says that the retail trade in anthracite coal is fairly active and prices are firmly maintained. There is yet no active movement begun in the trade for the current year. Preparations are making throughout all the nepartments of the trade, and as it is pretty well settled that an excess of two millions of tons on the production of last year will be required for the market, we are confidently looking for an active and steady trade. On the line of the Reading railroad the prices have been fixed, and those on board will be, it is expected, in a few days, as soon as navigation is open. The Lehigh Valley road has advanced its toll charges eighteen cents per ton from Mauch Chunk to Elizabeth and Port Johnson. Generally the carrying companies have ad-

His arguments were forcible impressed the committee favorably. Mr. well is in favor of compensating the comes, but it appears that the House has some etion to doing them this act of justice. the New York Times hopes that Congress will adjourn without making another effort to my out at least some of Mr. Sherman's recomminimum with a view of improving the ational credit. The Times says :

It need not be afraid, by any careful measure, of outrunning public opinion. The people both expect and desire to return, at some day, to a seund currency. If Congress will point out a pathway, properly guarded and not too precipitate, the people are ready to enter upon it.

Rev. Father Bjerring, (Greek priest,) in New

The error the Internationalists is to think they can set up a civil society without God or Carist. The growing indifference to religio here at home was also dwelt upon as among the most forbidding signs of the times.

The Cuban question is looming up. There was a demonstration last night by the colored citizens of Philadelphia in favor of the Cuban patriots, and a similar meeting is to take place soon in Washington. BRONCHIAL AFFECTIONS,

Mrs. Jones' Cough Mixture
has been hailed by the hundreds who have so successfully used it, as the best Cough remedy yet introduced. Patients with premonitory symptoms of Consumption have used it with great success, and its demand has steadily increased. In every case, either a cold and cough, or severe cases, where other remedies have been used and failed, it has given satisfaction. Indeed, such has been its praise by the afflicted, that we are warranted in recommending it to all as a safe and sure medicine, easily administered, pleasant to the taste, producing no nausea or other unpleasant effects, and certain to give satisfaction.

Read and despair no longer.

Gordonsville, Va., March 3, 1869.

Gentlemen: Our customers speak in the highest praise of the merits of Rosadalis.

We have a lady living not over five hundred yards from our store who, on account of an inveterate disease of the scalp, had not been able for three years to comb her hair with the coarsest comb, her head being a perfect scab, and who now, after using a few bottles of Rosadalis, can dress her hair with a fine comb with perfect freedom from pain.

We will have to order your medicine by the gross, in order to supply the demand. Very respectfully, j25-co6t

SEAWEED TONIC and MANDRAKE
PILLS.—These are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption. Dr. Schenck has been in constant practice over thirty years, continually examining lungs, and knows his medicines, if properly taken, will cure consumption. His Mandrake Pills cleanse the liver and stomach; his Seaweed Tonic dissolves the food, stimulates the coating of the stomach and aids digestion; his Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter, and nature thrown it off without any extertion. Prepared and for sale by J. H. SCHENOK
A SON, northeast corner Sixth and Arch streets,
Philadelphia, and by druggists and dealers generally.

How sad it is to see a young wife, a mother of family who requires all her physical strength to fulfill her household duties, and all her moral capacities to accept the responsibility which falls upon her, to see her prostrated, losing every day her strength, feeling badly without being able to say why, but yet suffering enough to be utterly miserable! This state of weakness and debility is more fatal to her than a severe spell of sickness, for in that case she will receive the proper care, as in the other she will linger months after months, not thinking worth while to see a physician about it, until nature, exhausted, gives out, and she is carried to the grave, when a little precaution in proper time would have spared her life. To prevent, to strengthen, to cure, nothing can compare with the LONG-LIFE BITTERS of Dr. L. G. BEETEAM. They are a safe and infallible remedy against malaria, dyspepsia, costiveness, billousness, headaches, morning sickness and all complaints peculiar to women. These Bitters, which are sold by all druggists, are, in consequence of their virtue and most agreeable taste, the medicine par excellence for ladies.

BIRDS FOR SALE—CANARIES and MOCKING BIRDS, male and female, best singers; also, CAGES. No. 137 South B street, fronting Pennsylvania avenue, Capitol Hill. feb4-eo3m* THE RAPIDITY AND EASE WITH WHICH THE BAPIDITY AND EASE WITH WHICH CORNS are removed and the feet relieved, if ailing, from Bunions, Bad Nails, &c., at DB. WHITE'S Establishment, 535 15th street, opposite the Treasury, is quite surprising to persons unaccustomed to his method of operating, which is entirely different from the old-time practice of tearing off the ingrowing toenail, or lancing deep into the bunion, a distressingly painful method, and one which obliged the sufferer to go shoeless, and semetimes on crutches, for weeks or months, and no doubt tended to shorten life, at least to make it farless pleasant and useful, but Dr. White's operations are frequently borne by children without complaint; there is little or no pain, no loss of time, and if none but suitable shoes be worn, the treatment, even in extreme cases, effects a perfect cure; though the feet being used so constantly Corns are liable to come occasionally with even the best-fitting shoes, and industrious persons think there is economy of time, comfort, and health in an occasional visit to the Chiropodist; and it is a well-known fact that thousands of persons, many of them those most honored in public and private life, come from far and near to visit Br. White's Establishment, to many of whom Dr. White has unsolicited permission to refer.
